

PRESS RELEASE

Wessex Ships First Grain out of Poole in 2009

September 2009

Wessex Grain is the first company to ship grain out of Poole this year. In its continuing quest to find the best markets for growers, it exported a shipload of feed barley to Southern Ireland in September.

Trading Manager Edd Britton said: "We are always looking to respond to the needs of farmers, and finding markets for feed barley and feed wheat is top of our priorities at the present time. We were delighted, therefore, to be the first company shipping out of Poole this year, and we will continue to be actively seeking markets that deliver the best possible prices."

Note to Editors

Wessex Grain was founded in 1980 and originally consisted of three organisations: Wessex Grain Ltd, and two member co-operatives, Wessex Grain Store and Wessex Grain Marketing. In 2003 these co-operatives were incorporated into Wessex Grain Ltd, and the original members became company shareholders. More information on Wessex Grain can be found on its website at www.wessexgrain.co.uk.
